EDITOR

The Courier, a 10,000 circulation daily newspaper covering three counties, seeks a top-notch journalist and manager to lead its newsroom of eight. The newspaper is a leader in the community, with a brand-new, sophisticated website; a great team; and a tradition of excellence. The newsroom earned top honors at this year's Associated Press Managing Editors contest, and the right candidate will be ready and able to continue that success. More specifically, the editor is responsible for the overall completion of the daily newspaper, including special sections. This includes editing and preparation of stories, photos and graphics, along with coordinating outputs with other editors. The editor supervises and works with other staff members to make maximum use of available materials, and is responsible for supervising all news staff and budgeting for the newsroom. The right candidate will have a bachelor's degree in journalism or a related field, along with a minimum of five years daily newspaper experience. He or she must be a good writer and editor with AP style familiarity, and have an understanding of computer applications for the newsroom. Working hours include some nights and weekends. The Courier is located in Russellville, about 60 miles northwest of Little Rock on beautiful Lake Dardanelle. We are the home to Arkansas Tech University. Interested candidates should submit a cover letter, resume and clips to publisher David Meadows at P.O. Box 887, Russellville, AR 72801 no later than Sept. 6. (6)
